

Raluca VIMAN-MILLER

Raluca Viman-Miller, Associate Professor & Associate Department Head in the Military College of Georgia, University of North Georgia, United States of America, one of the senior military colleges of the American federation. She graduated B.S. in Political Science, Babes-Bolyai University Cluj-Napoca Romania, M.A., Political Science, Georgia Southern University and Ph.D., Political Science, Georgia State University

Her areas of expertise and special interest are Comparative politics (migration, democratization, electoral behavior, extremist political parties, developing nations); International relations (security studies, conflict management, international institutions) and European Politics (post-communist societies, Eastern Europe, migration, voting behavior, extremist parties), She is the author of numerous studies in these areas of interest. She taught at University of North Georgia courses like American Government, Introduction to International Relations, Introduction to Comparative Politics, Global Issues, Introduction to European Union, US Foreign Policy, Comparative Government, East European Politics, East European Politics, Russian Foreign Policy, Politics of Western Europe, Theories of Comparative Politics and Democratic Transitions in Central Eastern Europe. Dr Viman-Miller was invited as guest lecturer or keynote speaker in different Romanian and American universities and in other institutions like the Forsyth County Public Library or the School of Conflict Management, Peacebuilding and Development at Kennesaw State University. She is member of prestigious professional associations: The Society for Romanian Studies, International Studies Association, American Political Science Association, Romanian Society of Political Science and Center for the Study of Democracy.