

The publication “Review of the Air Force Academy” was first published in 2003, in its Romanian version, and starting with 2006, the magazine has been published in English and issued two times a year. In 2005 , on the occasion of the 10-year celebration of the “Henri Coanda” Air Force Academy, a special issue was printed.

The review has hosted articles and papers written by university professors and specialists in the field of Air Force, belonging to the academic staff and to other prestigious universities.

Due to the profile of the “Henri Coanda” Air Force Academy, the articles published in the Review belong to the areas of expertise enlisted in the application form, point 6, respectively: technical sciences and applied mathematics, management and socio-humanities and military sciences.

In 2006 the Review of the Air Force Academy started being monitored by the CNCSIS and it was first assessed as class D, and in 2007 the review obtained its accreditation by the CNCSIS, class B.

Given the value, from a scientific perspective, of the quality of articles published in the review, the number of copies printed has increased, from year to year. Similarly, the requests for articles publishing from university professors and specialists throughout the country and abroad have increased, too. The review contributes to a valuable exchange of opinions within the national scientific community, via mutual exchanges among universities in Romania, thus, the scientific research interests of our staff become known throughout the country. Ever since its first issue, the magazine has been published regularly, the consistency between its designing and printing being preserved.